Acknowledgements

There are several people who have given me advice and input on this thesis and who deserve more than my thanks. These include my thesis committee readers, Dr. Richard Gunderman and Dr. Peter Schwartz – both of whom have discussed and debated these topics with me long before they were part of this project. Especially, I owe thanks to my thesis chair Dr. Jason Eberl, who inspired me with this idea during some of our earliest discussions at the University, and who has guided me all along the way. Finally, my gratitude to Noelle Celeste Brown, who has been a part of this thesis more than anyone, and who has taught me a great deal about writing. She also deserves my gratitude in her capacity as my wife, and the mother of our three children.
